This panel discussion is the product of the NCP Confronting Racism Task Force and a representation of the NCP congregations whom have undertaken to begin their own work of racial mindfulness and confrontation. This Open Space panel is a representation of the “deep” (task force) and “wide” (congregations) work that has begun in National Capital Presbytery, under the leadership of the Mission Coordinating Committee, living into NCP’s 5- year emphasis to “Bear public witness to the love, truth, and justice of God in Jesus Christ specifically in the areas of racism and reconciliation.” Join us in the National Presbyterian Church Chapel, where our panel will each have a few minutes to address the issue of racism, then opening to those gathered to create a dialogue that confronts the issues of racism, led by our capable and experienced facilitator from Falls Church Presbyterian Church, Andrea Brown.
